To-Day's Conference. Gov. John A. Martin of Kansas, Gov. John S. Marmaduke and Labor Commissioner Oscar Kochtitzky of Missouri arrived at

John S. Marmaduke and Labor Commissioner Oscar Kochtitzky of Missouri arrived at the Union Depot at 8:30 o'clock this morning from Kansas City. The party took a carriage and were driven to Hugst's European Hotel, where Gov. Marmaduke registered them and they were assigned to rooms upon the parlor floor. After checking their baggage and putting on clean collars all around, the two Johns and the Labor Commissioner repaired to Tony Faust's restaurant, where they partook of a hearty breakfast. A Post-Disparch reporter met the gentlemen after breakfast, picking their teeth in a barber shop on Fourth and Locust street. The Governors were in a happy frame of mind, and discussed the strike situation freely. "Of course you know what we are here for," said Gov. Marmaduke. "The newspaper reports of our ineeting with Mr. Powderly in Kansas City are substantially correct, and there is but little to add to them."

"You are here in the role of mediators between the strikers and the railroad officials?"

"Yes, sir, we are here to settle the strike if possible, and sincerely hope that we shall accomplish our purpose." Gov. Martin of Kansas and myself," said he, "have been in correspondence upon the subject of the trade and commercial relations between the States of Missouri and Kansas for several weeks past, and our engagement to meet at Kansas City and discuss matters of a business nature was made long before the strike occurred and consequently before we had any information of Mr. Powderly's presence there. Our meeting with Mr. Powderly and the employes of the Missouri Pacific Road was entirely unlooked for upon our part. We did not seek it nor did we offer to interfere in the strike in any way. Our concern was for the protection and advancement of the commerce of our respective States. Trade has been paralyzed for some time past and we deemed it our duty to do all that lay in our power to restore it to its normal condition.

"Well, he will do what is fair, you can depend upon that. I think that the matter may be settled upon the basis of the agreement of last spring. The railroad officials make the claim that that agreement has never been broken. I am of the same opinion and I have informed the employes that such was my view of the case. If the agreement had been broken it was the duty of the employes to immediately inform the Governor of the fact, and have it carried out."

The meeting of the different flowers are being made to run trains, as the officials think it is useless to try until there is some arrangement for se doing. The meeting of the different flowers are being made to be in much better spirits after the meeting adjourned. Prominent members of the Knights of Labor here, are inclined to think that the reports in the morning papers, concerning the proposed conference between the Governors of Missouri and Kansas and Mr. Hoxis, will amount to nothing. They say that there is sevidently a mistake in the telegram from Kansas City which said that the strikers would not ask for snything except that they should be taken back to work. The general belief among them here is that the report is mannfactured by the Associated Press for the purpose of weakening the strikers. The strikers are very quiet and there is no attempt a violence on the part of any one.

A Chance for Some Cold and Raw Weather To-Morrow.

The cold wave that is coming down here is peculiarly objectionable at the present time, for two reasons. It has been so remarkably warm the past work as to make the change dangerous, and the make the change dangerous, and the cold-wave flag has become so tattered and torn as to be little short of an eye-sore. Regarding the latter infliction, Sergt. Weber says that he is not responsible. He has written to the department three times about it, but they don't seem to have waked up to the disgraceful flaunting of such a rag as now floats from the Court-House flagpole with the dignified title of a "weather warning."

have been held in the executive office and several protests and remonstrances against the bill have been made, but very few of the arguments against it have been published. An incident which may be of some interest to both sides occurred shortly before the bill came up for passage in the House and is vouched for by Delegate Pat Monahan who as it appears is one of the principal factors in the transaction, the Electric Elevator Company itself being the other.

The facts in the case as originally stated, are that somebody purporting to represent the company made a proposition to Monahan, telling him that if he would withdraw his opposition to the bill and in fact go over to the other side and support it, the company would see that he was taken care of and would buy the property owned by him on North Seventh street adjoining the proposed route of the road at whatever price is should see fit to fix upon it. To a reporter of the Post-DispArch who called on Mr. Monar han to-day and asked him whether the statements given above were the truth, he said:

"Before I say a word about this matter I want to emphatically say that I think it is an outrage for any corporation to approach a man who is supposed to represent the people

The Alleged Trick of the Metropolitan Opera

CHICAGO, ILL., March 20. - While the German Opera Company, which has been performing ng New York at the Metropolican Operaouse, and which is now at the Columbia house, and which is now at the Columbia Theater here, is very strongly indorsed by the local press, their audiences have not been large, and it is openly charged in the press that the Metropolitan directors are responsible for this condition of things.

The Times, which has heretofore made these charges, this morning prints a letter from Frederick Grant Gleason, who charges that the management of the New York Metropolitan gave the artists their sanction for the he management of the New York Metropoli-an gave the artists their sanction for the present tour, and then resorted to the undigresent tour, and then resorted to the initial as well as ungentlemanly evice of flooding this city with statesents calculated to injure and depreciate the

that the Chicaterrorical as asying that the Chicareason is not far to seek for the Metropolitan manager is reported as saying that the Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia people wish to hear the company in "Pienzi," "Queen of Sheba," etc. They must visit New York for for that purpose. The Times adds: "It seems incredible that the New York directors are asses so shallow as well as arrogant, as Mr. Gleason's assigned reason for their action makes it necessary, but possibly he may be correct. In any event, it gives unmistakable testimony to the artistic worth of the performances, and that is all that Chicago people need concern the mselves about."

sented their demands to the various com-panies. On and after Monday, the 29th inst., they ask that twelve hours shall constitute a day's work, exclusive of an hour for meals. The committee stated to the presidents of the various roads that they would expect an answer by 10 o'clock on Tuesday next. It is pretty certain the reduction in hours will be granted by all the companies and a strike averted. The Transverse and Wylle avenue lines, it is understood, have both agreed to the proposition of the workmen.

THE HOUSE COMMITTEE SMOTHERS THE EDUCATIONAL BILL.

Telephone Suit-A National Health Commissioner — Contingent Expenditures of Congress — The National Cattle Trail —

estional bill has been smothered again, and its friends are exceedingly indignant. The bill introduced by Mr. Willis of Kentucky, which is friends are exceedingly indignant. The bill introduced by Mr. Willis of Kentucky, which is substantially the Blair bill, would have been reported favorably four weeks ago, but just after the committee had taken a vote on it, two missing members came in, and the vote being reconsidered, the bill was laid aside. Now that it has become apparent that the committee does not intend letting the bill get into the House, Mr. Willis is making more violent efforts still to have it considered. At vesterday's meeting of the committee Mr. Willis made several motions setting days for the consideration of the bill, but they were all beaten. Then he moved "that this committee will on as early a day as practicable, report an educational bill." The motion was voted down. The Committee refused to say that it would not make a further postponement after the third Friday in April, and also refused to place itself on record as in favor of any educational bill whatever. It is impossible to compet the committee to report the bill without changing the rules of the House, and as Mr. Carlisle is opposed to the bill, it is not believed the rules can be changed. On Monday Mr. Willis will introduce another educational bill and ask that it be referred to another committee. This can be done by a majority vote. It is highly probable, however, that even if this is done, the delays incident to the consideration and amendment of the bill will result in its defeat. Mr. Burnes of Missourl is credited with being the leader of the opposition in the Education Committee.

ative Burns of Missouri says that the storie educational bill are untrue. "We who have other things to occupy our time have not had time to examine the educational bill fully," said he this morning. "I am not opposed to the bill because Idenot know what is in it. We have postponed its consideration that we may have an opportunity of examining it fully. We will undoubtedly give it full consideration on the day we have set aside for it. It would be impossible now to say what the committee will do with the bill."

The Telephone Suit.

Mr. Hoxie's reply to Powderly, like his reply to Irons, dovetails as neatly with the notes and declarations with which Reeiver Brown opened the fight in Texas against the agreement of March, 1885, as the whole programme had been prearranged in a council of war. There is no longer any room for a doubt that Mr. Gould has deliberately entered into a trial of strength with the Knights of Labor, and is determined to measure his political and business influence, his resources of management, his powers of passive endurance or of active aggression, against theirs. There is reason to believe that he has the support, not only of all the railroads, but of fight, and there is no telling how far it may spread nor how long it may last. Between the two "fell incensed opposites" business must suffer until one or the other yields. The situation is so critical as to call for the utmost prudence of counsel from all inter ested in the settlement of the conflict. A few unguarded words may start a train of troubles of which no man can forsee the end. In the meantime the only chance of a triumph for the Knights of Labor lies in their ability to vindicate the justice of their position by patient eninst the Missouri Pacific which they durance and by conciliatory, peaceful and rish to discuss; the Missouri Pacific has a unquestionably lawful means, in the strugevance against the Knights of Labor gle for what they declare to be their

CURRENT SOCIALISM.

WASHINGTON GLADDEN, in the curren umber of the Century Magazine, offer ome timely suggestions in reference to ocialism which he recognizes as a stead ily growing social element. The writer prrectly contends that Socialist agitator serve a definite and useful purpose in directing studious attention to the evil tendencies growing out of the industrial system and economic conditions of our

The Socialist, who may be neither an workers shall be the only members. This view finds some justification in existing conditions, and vet it is an unsafe view for it does not consider the latent power of society to correct and readjust itself The civic virtue that dwells with the body politic will be found equal to critica our civilized life is afflicted with evils and abuses which call for instant attention and practical remedies. The unsettled sisting between labor and capital demonstrate the need of some better and plainer rule of readjustment and some clearer understanding, some uniform basis of agreement which shall remove the neces sity for strikes and lockouts.

The Socialist, having perceived and studied actual evils and dangers that menace the integrity of society and government, proposes a fanciful and chimerical remedy. He contends that the only tered and unorganized working-men. effectual remedy will come with the advent of a Utopian social state in which a paternal government shall own, control and operate all kinds of property for the equal use and benefit of all the people, who, as individuals, shall own nothing. The government shall uphold the entire industrial system of the country, employ ing men, paying wages, and doing all the work that is now done by private enterprise, and all existing conditions of social and economic life shall disappear in a vast and complicated commune. Evidently, the Socialistic remedy is too visionary and impossible to be considered or enter tained. Mr. GLADDEN recognizes self-interes and benevolence as the balanced and regulating forces of the ideal state. Under present industrial conditions, he contends, self-interest operates almost to the exclusion of benevolence, giving rise to the logical results of disorder, discontent, friction and mistrust. Here the Socialist, in his haste, declares substantially that benevolence must operate to the exclusion of self-interest, thus urging the application of a remedy that is fanciful and ossible, and which would lead on train of evils if it were possible. The true remedy is to restore the lost equilibriu etween self-interest and ber Civilization cannot dispense with any o its natural supports. The industrial order

It is painful enough to see a woman trying to put on her rubbers at home, but if you want to witness real agony, you must watch her when she has lost a rubber in the mud and is trying to get it on again without putting her dainty foot into the mire. A woman never makes much of a success in getting anything on her feet unless she can alt down on the floor.

The Western Club.

The work of driving the plies upon which the new boat-house of the Western Rowing Club is to be built was begun this morning. The work will be pushed rapidly, and the club expects to move into its new quarters by the middle of next May.

Among those who will take part in the entertainment to be given by the Westerns to morrow evening at Concordia Turner Hall are the Schramm brothers, Eiffert and Kennell. Prof. Newton of the gymnasium, will do some fancy, club swinging, and the great event of the evening will be the tug of war between the team furnished by the Central Turners and the Concordia Turners.

The club is having its entire fleet of boats overhauled and repaired, so that when the season opens up there will be an opportunity for all to find suitable boats.

man, and rank Cook, at a theatre on the south side of town. Four rounds were to be fought, with light gloves and according to Marquis of Queensberry rules. The sparring was nothing which could well be called scientific. In the first round Marx did some beautiful running around and no damage, and Cook stood in the center of the stage and watched him. In the second round the men became warmed to the work, Marx registering blow after blow with his right on Cook's nose and mouth and neck.

In the third round the Texas man was puffing and blowing, but he fought hard. By a flush in the nose he brought the blood in streams from Cook's nose and mouth. In this round Marx landed a heavy left-hander on Cook's ribs, and in the clinch that followed Cook held Marx by the neck and pounded him unmercifully in the face. In the fourth and last round the flighting was all one way. Marx kept up a fusilished of blows with either hand on Cook's face, while the latter stood with his left out automatically and received them without a move. When time was called, Cook was blood from his head down, and his face was unrecognizable.

The condition of Bishop Robertson of the Episcopai Church was such last night as to cause the greatest alarm. At one time during the night it was thought he could not raily, and the physicians and attendants worked hard to keep up the circulation. Once after the rubbing had been quite severe the doctor thought he might have caused the sufferer pain, and asked the bishop if it hurt him. "No, no," said the sufferer, faintly, touching his head. "It is trouble, trouble, up here."

Bis now stated that the stroke of paralysis, which originally affected but one side, has prostrated his entire body.

erably annoyed over the report that his resignation of the pastorate of St. George's Episcopal Church, which was written yesterday, and which is to take effect October 1 next, was caused by differences with his brethren over the late retreat. Dr. Fulton was seen to-day by a Post-Disparch reporter and said:

"I have been considering my resignation for the last three months, though no one knew it outside of my own family until it was actually written. Of course, it is a surprise to my vesiry and people. The reason? Well, a great weariness, for one thing; I need a time for complete rest and change of thought. Yes, I confess to a deep disgust at certain things in the judicial system of the Episcopal Church. It is a crime against human justice that men, who are exposed to special dangers, should be denied by the Church a common right which the secular law secures to the humblest citizen. I think a very loud and indignant protest is needed to rouse the church to action in the matter. The worst of it all is that a set of sycophants are trying to make it an offense for a clergyman to speak the truth or to recognize injustice done to the innocent. I am not recreant to the Christian religion, and I am not a traitor to the church from which I hold my orders, but I propose to obey my own conscience, and, while I have never assailed any other man's motives, I believe in no man's personal infallibility."

"What will you do after you leave your patorate? Will you practice law?"

"What shall I do in the future? Well, I don't quite know. There is time enough to think about that. It is possible that I may return to parochial life after a while. I shall do so if it seems to be a duty; but if I should go to the bar, I should not violate any cannon of the church. Certain functions in the administration of justice have always, like teaching, been recognized as being consistent with holy orders. For ages all the law-yers were elergymen. If I were to go to the bar I should continue to serve the church to my best ability, but I have be RABOTEAU & CO. THE PIONEER of LOW PRICES IN DBUGS AND PERFUMERIES, 114 N. NOT CONSTITUTIONAL.

An Important Point in the Trial of a Prithe motion filed by Mr. Gilliam, attorney for Chas. D. Bennett, charged with acting as a private detective without a license, to quash the information, on the ground that the law requiring private detectives to be licensed is unconstitutional. Sim T. Price and Chas. T. Noland, the prosecuting witness, are making the arguments for the State in answer to the motion. Judge Noonan refused to sts in the case, because he did not like private detectives in general, and because, he said, he had a peculiar contempt for Bennett as a specimen of the tribe.

mentioned the names of Thomas Rucker, foreman of engine No. 15; Frank Lottus, foreman of the 25's, and Mike Delarky, foreman of the No. 5's. The Democrais who do the most talking relative to new appointments and hunt up past political records say that the Mayor will not approve the appointment of the nrst-named candidate if submitted to him, for several reasons. Rucker, they say, made himself quite conspicuous during the election last spring by doing considerable campaign work for the Republican party, and while he is considered a first class man for the plate, the friends of the other candidates will insist that men be appointed who have made reputations of being workers for their own party. There are a few other aspirants for their positions, but their strength is not considered very powerful.

About Fifty Old Members of the Police Force Will Be Dropped.

The statement that the Board of Police Com missioners intend to discharge several turn-keys and reduce a number of patroluen to missioners intend to discharge several turnkeys and reduce a number of patroluen to turnkeys has created considerable alarm in the ranks of the police force,
Some time ago the board decided to have a physical examination of the men on the force, and in addition to the regular medical examination the captains reported on the men.
From both sources the board have received adverse reports on about fifty officers, and all of them will have to go. Most of them are superanuated and others are indapacitated for duty because of some physical aliment. The turnkeys to be dropped are those who were given the places without ever having been members of the police. There are some thirteen of these turnkeys in the department and they will all have to go on the lat of April. Their places will be filled by men selected from the ranks of officers reported unfit for regular police duty, the men with the best records being given the places. It is a sort of system of pensioning inaugurated by the department.
The commissioners want to get rid of all dead timber, and of course can-only pension off as many as there are vacancies among the turnkeys. The other superanunated officers will have to go altogether, but will, probably, be given about six months' time in which to look for other places.

MILLIONAIRE WIDOW'S SON ELOPES WITH A PRETTY SEAMSTRESS.

By Telegraph to the Post-Disparch.

NEW YORK, March 20.—There was another elopement at Yonkers yesterday, but unlike the Morosini-Schelling affair, this time a young man of good family, the favorite son of a mill-ionaire widow, ran away with a seamstress employed in the family. Unlike the former ecupie, too, the young people in the latter affair have been forgiven and furnished with a country home, where they may enjoy a quiet honeymoon. The contracting parties were William Denny Brereton, aged 25, and Eilen E. Hyde, aged 22. The young man is the second son of Capt. Thomas J. Brereton, and for twenty on Palisade avenue, near Ashburnum place, ered a desirable match by all the young

Mer aughters and three sons, with the widowed raged in London a young seamstress, with whose conduct and work she was very much leased. The young woman became a companion rather than a menial, and every mem-ber of the family regarded her with favor. She spoke of her family at times. Her father was a tradesman in Worcester, while a brother kept a jewelry shop in Regent street, which was sacked by the mob during the recent riots, and the young seamstress sent a portion of her carefully saved earnings to help reestablish her brother in business. Another brother is in the British Navy and took part in the Alexandria bombardment. The girl was a member of the Anglican Church in Yonkers, where the Breretons worshiped. The family had not marked any growing affection between her and young 'Willie,' as the Brereton son was called. On Thursday last he took tea at the residence of Mr. W. H. Mills, the rector of St. Paul's, and was ASCHATTI AS USUAL.

He left the house immediately after the meal and hurried to a livery stable, where he engaged a carriage. He ordered the driver to put him down near the Brereton house, and in a few moments returned with the bride-elect. All haste was made to Mount Vernon, four miles across the country. Rev. Stephen F. Holmes, rector of Christ Church, was called on, and the young man made know his errand. The minister put. the couple through a sharp examination, and when satisfied that they were of age and that no obstacle intervened, pronounced them man and wife, and the coachman, who had spent a half-hour wondering what had become of his fares, drove them back to Yonkers. They separated, and yesferday the young husband more than surprised his mother by confiding to her the secret of what he had done. It was a complete and not by any means welcome surprise, but the widow of the old army officer acted promptly. To cut off a great portion of the gossip which she knew the matter would stir up, the young couple were hurried away to a beautiful farm which the mother owns near Pittsburg, and at 4 o'clock in the evening, before the scandal mongers had heard the news, the happy couple were speeding away on their wedding trip with the benediction of Mrs. Brereton. The young man will, after a time, look up a position for himself in the Pittsburg indus when called upon by the POST-DISPATCH correspondent, Mrs. Brereton was found quietly reading.

"Yes, 'tis true; the marriage has taken place, "she said. "I wish the young people thorough enjoyment. It was an utter surprise to me and to all of us. There was not a suggestion of what was qoming. The young lady has been as much of a companion to me as anything else and is worthy of the love of any man. I suppose we must take the sunshine and the shadows of life as they come along."

"And this you consider something akin to a cloud?"

"Well, yes, perhaps, but a cloud with a sil-cloud?"

"Well, yes, perhaps, but a cloud with a silver lining, let us hope."
The bridegroom on his father's side comes of fighting stock. His grandfather, of English descent, was a surgeon in the United States army, and his father, Thomas J. Brereton, born in Washington, went to West Point as a member of descent, was a surgeon in the United States army, and his father, Thomas J. Brereton, born in Washington, went to West Point as a member of the Pamous class of 1843, of which Gen. Grant was a member. Brereton was graduated No. 3 in the class, and saw service in the Mexican war and gained special mention for his gallant conduct at Palo Alto and Resaca de la Palma. He was appointed to various arsehals, and while at Allegheny Arsenal, Pittsburg, met and married the daughter of the millionaire, Harmon Denny. In 1858 he resigned his commission in order to give his entire attention to the management of the vast estate of his widowed mother-in-law, and look after oil-works which he had himself established near Pittsburg. This labor broke down his health and in 1855 he went to Yonk-ers as a place of rest, and bought a fine establishment on Palisade avenue. Thomas, the eidest son, after being graduated at Columbia College and the School of Mines, married Miss Landsay, of Elizabeth, and is now in the service of the Pennsylvania Railroad at Altoona. Two other Brereton boys are completing their education, while three daughters remain unmarried. The Denny family is a noteworthy one. The palatial homestead, Meliwood, near Pittsburg, was at one time the finest residence in Western Pennsylvania. One daughter married a son of Dr. Spring, the Presbyterian minister. Another is Mrs. Rev. Dr. Haxton. Mrs. McKnight is another of the Denny girls, while Mrs. Brocton is the fourth. Rev. C. Harmon Denny, S. J., of the Jesuit College in West Sixteenth street, is a brother. He was converted by Cardinal Manning asked his thoughts. The young man told him. "Go to my church yonder, kneel and pray till I come to you' said the Cardinal. In an hour the priest was beside him, and the student left the Catfloile Church. When Mrs. Denny was preparing her will it was her intention to give a million dollars to each of her six sons and daughters. Rev. Dr. Denny heard of it and wrote, begging her to give him only a life interest in his portion, allowing

There is an old and musical distich which woo, coax and flatter, but if you are courtditious about the matter. Apart from'this poetic suggestion there is no prescribed method of courtship. This business has been purely experimental from the beginning and there is no probability that it will at any time ose its experimental character. Every man must necessarily be his own tutor and textbook. Front gates and lonely parlors are the work of this kind. This is all the information on the subject.

Addressing a Lady.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch. Which is the proper form to use in addressing a note, business or social, to a young lady, as opposed, for instance, to a similar one addressed to a gentle-man. For instance, "Mr. Jno. Smith: Dear Sir."

If it is a formal note you might address it "My Dear Miss Smith," or if you desire to be more careful, address the lady simply as "Miss Smith." Friendship, on acquaintance, will suggest any further encroachments that may be made on the endearing terms of the English language. If the lady is married address her as "Dear Madame."

No, Virgilia, it does not—particularly if the face-wash is hydrant water, and there is the proper accompaniment of soap and sponge and towel. If you refer, though, to other kinds of face-wash, such as freckle eradicators, wrinkle levelers and nose whiteners they are equally harmless in affecting your social standing, although their effect on the face may in time make you prefer sedentary solitude to standing in society.

There is one little feature of Miss Davenport's acting in her love scene in the third act which is not thoroughly pleasant. It is her whinny of delight when Loris concludes he will stay. There is just a little too much suggestion in it of riotous reveiling in a pleasant anticipation. It has a flash of the fine, sensual animal, whose impulses are rather too strong to be nice. It calls up the tail-flirting, neighing and leaping of a hungry corn-fed horse turned into a clover field. The whinny might be modified to advantage.

STANDARD THEATER.

Burlesque will rule again at the Standard, interpreted this time by Alice Oates and her company of hurlesque artists. Alice Oates brings with her a full company of handsome young women with pretty costumes and accessories. "The Scotish Poacher" will be given with a "Roman March," "Mikado Dance" and "La Gavotte" as special features.

THE PALACE MUSEUM.

The Axtecs, who have created a vast amount of interest at the Palace Museum this week, will stay for one week more only. Capt. Ureck remains for another week, with Queen Zuleika and Little Tot, the Albino child. For the stage show there will be "Uncle Tom's Cabin," with jubilee singers, and the Climax Colored Quartette.

The German Grand Opera Season.

The musical event of the near future is the engagement of the German Grand Opera Com pany, selected from the artists of the Metropolitan Opera Company at New York, which will open at the Olympic, Monday, March 29, for a season of seven performances. The organization is composed of the principal artists of the Metropolitan, of the orchestra of the symphony society of New York, which formed the orchestra of the Opera-house of the ballet and chorus of forty members. The repertoire for the week will embrace Wagner's "Blenzi." which is new to St. Louis; Goldmark's "Queen of Sheba," also new to this city; Wagner's "Tannhauser" and "Lohengrin," Myerbeer's "Prophet," and Beethoven's "Fideilo." The pleces de resistance will be "Rienzi" and "Queen of Sheba," the magnificent productions of which created furors in New York. The opera will be given exactly as produced in New York.

Mrs. Drew will go on the road next season with a repertoire.

The Standard Theater will have a supplementary season this summer of burlesque and comic opera given by a company under the management of Geo. H. Lederer. The company will be headed by Alice Harrison, and negotiations are in progress to get Roland Reed. In the repertoire for the ten weeks of the season will be "Babes in the Wood," "Ixion," "Cinderella," "Oxygen," "Pocahontas," "Mikado," "Little Duke." The season will open May 25.

rom the Dramatic Times. The effect produced during the Southern tour of "Fedora" seems to be centered upon the hapeliness of Mr. Mantell. The critics appear to think more of the legs of Loris than of the play, and to regard Miss Davenport with less interest than they give to the support of her leading man. Paragraphs in praise of Mr. Mantell's legs constantly appear in the Louis-ville and other papers. I read there notices of his legs in Southern journals the other day, one of which declared that "with such legs Mantell could walk into any woman's heart!"

Mr. Irving has, the English papers detail to us, had a narrow escape from going to the hospital, and all on account of the spectacular exigencies of "Faust." The first act of that exigencies of "Faust." The first act of that play ends with Memphistopheles and Faust being borne out of the latter's study on a cloud. A slide masked in with cloud pieces furnishes the motive power. The sudden start of this vapory charlot threw Mr. Irving and Mr. Alex. ander off, the former falling and striking his head upon the table and cutting his face very badly in three places. One of the wounds, over the left eye, had to be stitched up. Mr. Irving's face bled profusely, but the wounds were covered with plaster, and the plaster covered with paint, which had to be renewed frequently during the evening. Mr. Alexander was more fortunate, hurting his leg in the fall, but not severely.

The Next Operatic Craze.

From the New York Sun.

The heavy profits made by Gilbert and Sullivan through "The Mikado" in this country, and the likewise great sum which piracy of the and the likewise great sum which piracy of the opera has deprived them of, have led them into tremendous anxiety as to their next work, and its protection. Sullivan consulted with lawyers while recently here on the question whether, if he were to become a naturalized citizen of the United States, he would lose his copyrights in England, in which case his music would be lost to film in that country, though Gilbert might still protect the words there, and they would not be available here without the notes. That scheme was abandoned. The present idea is to associate an American author in the next opera to a sufficient extent to let him copywright the work. As the portions written by him, distributed through the words and music, need not be disclosed until an action in court against infringers made it essential, it is thought that the device may prove effective. The new piece, which by contract is to be ready for production next October, is to present the story of an Egyptian girl, who learns that she is a descendant of an ancient princess, and undertakes to live up to her illustrious ancestry. The fun is to arise from the mixture of by-gone Egyptian and present English dress, customs and usages. The satire is to be upon the commercial instincts of Englishmen in extending England's influences; and the plot is so far developed that the New York co-laborer has received his assignment of several brief passages of dialogue and music to write. It does not follow that his small part of the work will remain as he provides it, but it will be enough his own to make it defensible. opera has deprived them of, have led them

Lent never has any very perceptible effect or the New York theaters. Perhaps this is mainly due to the tremendous Jewish element in our due to the tremendous Jewish element in our population. Jews, who make money and whose names would almost be a Broadway directory between the City Hall and Union square, are liberal supporters of the play-houses, and when we consider the number of people who, according to Bishop Doanes' Albany eatechism, are heretics and schismatics and do not observe Lent, and the other well-known quantity to this problem who, although lawabiding citizens, are not particularly wedded to religious observances of any sort, it is easy for even a "churchman," be he Romanist or Episcopalian, to recognize that the absence of people of his way of thinking cannot leave many empty seats in the theaters. Business therefore has been as good since Mardi Grasnight as it was before Ash Wednesday morning, and promises to be fair, at least, right up to Easter, which comes in just before May Day. Several of the theaters which stand high in popular esteem have had very slim audiences, but the true reason of this was to be found in the poor attractions offered.

The Terrors of the Pet.

Miss Etelka Borry, said to be a Hungarian actress, but speaking English with only a slight accent, appeared on Saturday evening at the Olympic in Charles Reade's adaptation at the Olympic in Charles Reade's adaptation of Sardou's "Andrea." Miss Borky is neither very attractive in appearance nor very original art. Like another recent aspirant from the same regions, she is rather stagy, but, unlike Miss Rigi, she possesses little or no power. The scanty audience received her efforts with tolerance, and even with some applause, but towards the end of an unduly protracted performance the pit showed a disposition to relieve the tedium of the evening by "gnying" the absurdities of the mad-house scene and of the last act. The heroine's husband, steran, for instance, was greeted on each of his appearances as Stiffun, a not unappropriate sooriquet.

Berlin Letter in Chicago Inter Ocean. Speaking of crazes reminds me of one which every true Berliner is expected to have and generally does—that for Albert Niemann, the irst actor and singer in the Royal Opera-house. He is quite old and his voice is at least passe, without saying any more, but his interpretation of Wagner, and especially in the character of Siegmund in the "Walkure" and "Tannhauser," is wonderful.

Niemann, Fhear, is going to America and I am curious to see what impression he will make there. While Niemann sings these parts the one who stands next to him and who has lately won for himself great praise as Sige.

the one who stands next to him and who has lately won for himself great praise as significant fired is Herr Ernest. He is a younger man and takes the parts which Niemann either on account of his age or voice cannot play. His Jose to the Carmen of Fri. Lilli Lehmann, who is now in America, is especially good, and many think that he will step into the place which Niemann before many years will be forced to leave.

Wagner's music is very popular in Berlin, at least, if one may judge by the crowded opera-house whenever one of his operas is given. Wagner, played in America and only in snatches, is different from the Wagner one hears in these wonderful operas, sung by Germans and in the true German spirit. His opera, "Parsifal," which, according to Wagner's own direction, is never given outside of Baireuth, will this coming summer be sung there in his own opera-house, together with "Tristan und Isolde."

Sarah Bernhardt is in a way about her costumes for her approaching tour in South America and the United States. Her stage wardrobe is to comprise not less than forty-two dresses, to be paid for by her manager. She gave the order originally to Felix, who has always made her theatrical dresses, but that worthy refused to have anything to do with them until his former bill for tollets supplied for the plays brought out at the Porte St. Martin was settled. Sarah had simply allowed his account to come in on the same footing as that of her other creditors, and he resented the proceeding. "Zeph" is a story of frontier life in Colorado. One feels a sort of compulsion on one to admire, or at all events to review favorably, if at all, the posthumous work of a well-known author, particularly a woman author; just as when a friend or acquaintance dies, we bury all his faults five fathoms deep, and speak only of his good qualities; or if he had none we invent them. Without pausing to reflect upon the ethics of the latter proposition, we must remark that like "Zeph" elf, the former proposition, although many ways commendable, does not altogether commend itself to us. A book is a book—a lifeless, senseless thing, but posessing enormous powers for good or evil. If the authoress had been alive and in full poses-

In this, of course, she was to blame, but it must be owned, that Zeph was not exactly the man to win, still less to hold, a woman's love. Clever women of decided characters used to leave her house, every now and then, the town red with the man or men of her fancy, returning home when she was tired to her long-suffering husband. The name of Spinoza is one burdened long with undeserved reproach. He was falsely accused of atheism, whereas, as his vindicators justly claim, he should rather be called a "God intoxicated man." Great hopes were entertained of the youth by the leaders of his people—hopes which gave way to fears when the rabbis discovered that the boy was developing a questioning spirit, whose pertinacity they were unable to satisfy. what says our author on this subject?

In the position which the Hebrews have constantly occupied toward the races among which they have sojourned there has been much to exasperate men just rising out of barbarism-much, indeed, which those well civilized have hardly been able to bear with equanity. The Christian has bitterly persecuted, but when has the Jew been conciliatory? for, except in the case of the noble soirties of his race (whom he has usually made haste to cast forth) when has he shown the wide extending sympathy which recognizes cordially the brotherhood of the human race and looks toward the tearing down of the wails of separation between man and man? In this story of humiliation, therefore, the victim is not to be held quite blameless. Let no Christian, however, presume to claim that the guilt is not mainly with his household of faith.

strength to speculations as profound as have ever occupied the brain of man.

His character was made up of generous simplicity and heroic forbearance. He taught the learned world the doctrines he had elaborated with endless toil, but he taught children to be regular in attendance at divine service, he had no unwise proselytism which would destroy old convictions in minds unfitted to receive others. * * He died when but 45, the peer of the sublime leaders of the human race. * * * He produced a system which will ever remain as one of the most astounding efforts of abstract speculation—a system that has been decried for nearly two centuries, as the most iniquitous and blasphemous of human inventions, but which has now within the last twenty years become the acknowledged parent of a whole nation's philosophy, ranking among its admirers some of the most plous and illustrious intellects of the age.

In some parts of the world the idea seems to be gaining ground that we are all to be pushed to the wall by the all-conquering Israelite; that the money power is falling into his hands, and political power is following; that he is, in fact, seizing upon the best places in every direction; that the time is at hand when the Jew with all his haughty pride of race is to grasp the headships of the world.

* Whether the apprehensions of the Germans are reasonable or not, we will not stop to inquire, but what testimony is this to the astonishing power of the Jew that one of the greatest of modern nations seems to shudder with fear lest this fraction of Jews in its population is about to reduce it to subjection.

We have traced the Jew from his first apwe have traced the Jew from his first appearance in the most remote antiquity until the present time. The pride and force with which he confronted the most powerful nations of the ancient world have been portrayed; the unyielding spirit with which he defied the Roman force while he was driven from his land to wander as an outcast, the spirited intensity with which he subdued his very conquerors to his ideas, even at the moment when he was himself crushed.

The gulf of wee through which he has passed, The gulf of woe through which he has passed, the new glory which he is at length seizing upon, new that the chain is broken, and his unperishable energy has once more free course. It is a people of astonishing vigor; the wonderful character of whose achievements it is hardly possible to exaggerate.

The burning question now is: Where was Van Sicklen when the Racing Board made up its little list? For he certainly is missed.

The Missouri Club decided this week to give a silver cup and a gold medal to the member making the most miles during the season, after April 1.

The American Wheelmen's fifty-mile road race seems to have got a bad blow from the suspension of the fast amateurs. But Ladish says if they come West he will have them race anyway.

A run to Manchester with a hill climbing contest at Son-of-a-gun should be the ride taker this spring by all the wheelmen of the city to gether. The distance is just right for calling out three times the number that any other route would.

and see where (by the help of these great minds and the toleration of the nineteenth century) he stands, after eighteen centuries of persecution, wrong and outrage from every nation under Heaven.

For some reason, an astonishing change from their old abasement is to be noticed in the position they have come to occupy. The mediæval outcast is everywhere climbing into places of power, until it begins to seem possible that he may attain in the future an ascendancy as remarkable as his past is abject.

In military life, in agriculture, in handlerafts, the Jews, it is true, do not figure largely; but what they lose in the work of their hands they more than compensate for by the work of their brain. Take the world of trade for example. What says our author?

In the world of trade it has in some way come about that a pre-eminence is everywhere conceded to the Jew. He is omnipresent and everywhere dreaded. It is of competition with him, that the peddier who deals in sixpences worth's stands most in fear. The same aggressive elbows are crowding cavallerly the militian in the high or low places. To the Cuticura Remedies I owe My Health, My Happiness, and My Life.

A day never passes that I do not think and speak kindly of the Cuticura Remedies Remedies is seen years ago all of a dozen lumps formed on my neck, ranging in size from a cherry stone to an orange. The large ones were frightful to look at and palmult to bear. People turned aside when they saw me, in disgust, and I was arhamed to be on the street or in society. Physicians and their treatment, and all medients failed to do any good. In amount of deeparl I tried the CUTICUTA REMEDIES; the small lumps (as I call them) gradually disappeared, and the large ones broke in about two weeks, discharging large quantities of matter, leaving two singlets cars on my neck to-day to the the history of my suffering. My weight them was one hundred and fitten sickly pounds; my weight, now is one hundred and stay-one solid healthy pounds, and my height is only five feet, five linched, in my travels I praised the CUTICUTA REMEDIES, North, South, East and West. 119 HOWARD ST.. ST. LOUIS, MO, GENTLEMEN: I am feeling better than I have for the past year, and have gained four pounds since I commenced using your Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey. It is a medicine.

Respectfully, ALBERT POWERS. ALBERT POWERS. LIBERTY AND TWENTY-THIRD STS., PITTS-BURG, PA.N. I have used your whiskey for the purpose at thought of indigestion. I had a queer tender about the stomach. Since using your whiskey I have never been troubled, and besides I have in the four weeks gained 4 good pounds in weight. I just feel hearty, and can see what a great change it has brought about for me.

JAMES WHITESIDE.

GENTLEMEN: I will say truthfully that for the short time that I have been using Dutfy's Pure Mait Whiskey it has done me more good than any medicine that I have ever used. My complaint is dyspepsia and general debility. I have used all kinds of patent medicines, but they did me no good, and was about to give it up as a bad job, as I was about discouraged. I know when I commenced taking it I weighed 143 pounds. I now weigh 150% pounds, which I consider doing more than well in five weeks. I have been troubled with dyspepsia and indigestion for the past 7 years; my stomach was very weak and appetite middling

GENTLEMEN: I assure you and state with all confidence, that I thick Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey and Consumption Cure are the very best remedies for all complaints of the lungs and throat troubles that I have used. My complaint is not consumption, but asthma and bronchitis. I have had throat trouble and spitting of blood for six or eight years, more or less, and tried several good doctors, but your remedy has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. I have taken seven bottles in the last four months and I find that I have used in your Gensumption Cure three bottless. I have gained about four or five pounds, but I will still keep using it for at least two or three mouths longer, as I wish to give it a thorough trial. I will still keep using it for at least two or three mouths longer, as I wish to George dicts for the benefit of all who may be suffering as I have been. I think that every dose I take makes me feel better. I sleep much better since using it, I do not cough or expectorate near as much as I did three or four months ago.

e Malt Whiskey. If We are the discoverers and only manufacturer in the world of an absolutely pure whiskey. THE DUFFY MALT WHISKEY CO., BALTIMORE, MD.

THE DUFFY MALT WHISKEY COMPANY has had prepared for it by a great German scientist, with special care, a formula which is a sure and positive cure for CONSUMPTION, and which can be prepared by any family housekeeper (raw beefsteak and DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY being of the ingredients). This formula will be sent, under seal of the company, to any person afflicted with consumption and using our whiskey, free of charge, upon receipt of a two-cent stamp. It is equally valuable for INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA and recovery from WASTING DISEASES. The demand for it is universal, its efficacy is pronounced and curative, and the testimonials to its virtue are humerous beyond mention. All inquiries concerning the formula and the use of our Whiskey in any disease will be cheerfully answered by our Medical Department.

digestion greatly improved. I have not the least doubt your remedy is a most valuable one in all wasting diseases, and shall use it in all cases where it is indicated. Respectfully, DR. JOHN R. HILL. Philadelphia, Pa. (222 S. 9th street.) GENTLEMEN: I am using your Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey as a medicine in my practice for lung affections. I have often prescribed it, and think it is the best tonic and stimulant.

DR. E. W. FARROW.

Mr. JOHN C. GROSS, Riverside, N. J., writes:
"After using and trying almost ererything. Codliver Oil, Beet Tea, and many other medicines, utited again as the consumption, Hemorrbage, Malaria, and Dyspe Cas. I took as my last refuge your Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey, and I am much stronger and better. Mr. PHILIP O'CONNELL, 176 E. 85th street, New York City, writes: "I was taken with hem-orrhages of the lungs four months ago, and have also had asthma. Concerning the effect of your formula and Dutfy's Pure Malt Whiskey, the ben-efits derived from their use have been far beyond my expectations. Since taking them have gained greatly in strength, with almost complete relief."

Mr. SAMUEL S. STODDARD, 82 Broadway, New York, writes: "I have used the formula, and will take pleasure in recommending your Duffy? Pure Mait Whiskey. As a medicine I think it is unexcelled. My son has used both for his lungs, as directed, and it has been of decided benefit to him. I know of no reason why you will not succeed in doing an immense amount of good, and I will recommend your whiskey to every one. Mrs. JOSEPHINE CHOYS, 617 New Jersey avenue, Washington, D. C., writes: "I purchased a bottle of your Juffy's Pure Mait Whiskey and have used only a portion of it. It has done more good than the eight bottles of cod liver oil I have taken. I have had a cough for three years, and will continue to use it. Please send your formula."

Mr. T. B. WOLF, 1829 Darien street, Phila-delphia, Pa., writes: "Allow me to say that your formula is just as represented; have been using it with your Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey for my lungs with marked effect, and have been entirely relieved." Mr. GEORGE D. HART, 60 Carpenter street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "I had been suffering from hemorrhage of the lungs for six years, and have spent large sums. I was advised to see your valuable formula and Duttry's Pure Mait Whiskey. I wish to say for the benefit of those suffering from hemorrhage that I am entirely cured and feel like a new man."

Mr. THOS. J. NEELY, 52 Church street, Ponghkeepsie, N. Y., writes: "I am afflicted with consumption, and recently began using Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey and formula, and, am happy to say, with best results."

Mr. B. F. TAYLOR, 248 Twenty-first street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have suffered with hemorrhapes of the lungs, and at last tried your Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey, and am now free from all pain in the chest. I cheerfully recommend your whiskey to all."

Mr. EDWARD L. BENTLEY, Chicago, Ill., writea: 'I had hemorrhages of the lungs for years, and doctors had given up my case as hopeless. My friends persuaded me to try Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey, and I owe my entire recovery to it. I have regained my full vitality, and feel it a duty to recommunity your whiskey as the best remedy in cases like mine."

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

FOR DYSPEPSIA AND INDIGESTION.

There are more disordered stomachs in America than in any nation on the globe, and dyspepsia and indigestion have become national maladies. The causes are manifold, but the recognized prescription of physicians is a pure stimulant, administered medicinally, and a pure stimulant is the only cure.

Mr. J. MITCHELL HEBB, 621 Market street, Wilmington, Dél., writes; "Your Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey is the best medicine in the world, and has done my poor, weak system more good then anything I ever used. In fact, it has made me able to attend to my business, which I could not do before I commenced its use. I have gained wonderfully in fiesh."

Mr. FRED W. WILD: Agent Royal St. John Sewing Machines, 35 North Gay street, Baitimore, Md., writes: "For ten years my wife suffered with acute dyspepsia or neuralgia of the stomach. Different remedies were used without effect. Her sufferings were intense, and relief could only be obtained by hypodermic injections of morphine. Hearing of your Duffy's Fure Mait Whiskey, she commenced its use, and so steadily improved she has no use for it now. While suffering she visited a place where she could not get it, and, though she procured the best of other whiskies, she could not use it. I know of nothing equal to yours for stomach affections."

Mrs. BELCHIN, 125 Wells street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "For several mouths past I have been suffering from a seriously disordered stomach. Having tried many remedles, and getting no relief from them, I at last tried your Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey, which was recommended by a friend, with great success. I can, with good conscience, recommend it as the best remedy I know of for troubles of the kind." Mr. GEORGE G. BLUHM, Pontiac, Ill., writes:

Mr. ALBERT CARL, 123 Wells street, Chicago, Ill., writes: "I have been suffering for months with indigestion and cramps of the stomach, so that I could hardly retain food. I used bitters, tonics and medicines, without relief. A friend recommended your Duffy's Pure Mait Whiskey. After the use of a half-bottle a remarkable change took place, and I consider my entire recovery due to it." Mr. M. J. CASEY, 414 Madison street. New York, N. Y. writes: "I am using your Dutfy's Pure Malt Whisky as a stimulant, and find it is the only tonic that has ever agreed with my stomach. The good I have experienced from its use impels me to recommend it."

Mr. HENRY BILLINGS, 211 G street, N. W., Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used your putry's Pure Mait Whiskey medicinally as a tonic, and I consider it superior to hundreds of con-cections now flooding the land as stimulants." Mr. MITTNACHT (Louis Deiter & Co.) Baitl-more. Md., writes that his case of dyspepsia he considered hopeless. Duffy's Pure Mait Whis-key cured him in a short time.

"I hope I may be pardoned for saying," says Dr. S. B. Anderson, of Norfolk, Va., in "Galllard's Medical Journal," "that the present empirical use of quinine is worthy of the darkest period of the Dark Ages. It is "Northing above to our profession." Experience ion I know of no remedy to approach or equal your Duffy's Fure Mait Whiskey to bridge over a crisis or mend the broken cup of health in an emergency of immediate danger. This may be said of alcohol in general were it not the fact that many of our whiskies are so sophisticated. These impurities are in the Duffy's Fure Mait Whiskey entirely absent, thus affording a sure and safe stimulant, a true tonic.

MR. J. A. RINGROSE, 174 Battery avenue, Baitimore, Md., writes: "My twin babies of 5 months had suffered with pains since their birth, at times having their limbs to draw up and become stiff, expecting them to go into convulsions. The pains were caused, no doubt, by irregularity of bowels, the children becoming emaciated. After trying treatment of local remedies, as well as medical treatment, without avail, and with loss of rest to myself and wife, we thought it impossible to save the little ones, and as a last resort, we resolved to try one bottle of your DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY. We are glad we did; the result was wonderful; it relieved the babies at once, producing a natural, quiet sleep, relieving them of wind pain, restoring their bowels to a normal condition, thriving wonderfully. While generally opposed to intoxicating liquors as a medical preparation. I don't think your MALT WHISKEY can be beat."

Mr. A. J. MERRILL, Editor The Ledger, Pocomoke, Md., writes: "I have been using your DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHSKEY in my family for a long time. I got it originally for a delicate child. Have given it to her. She is to-day in the best of health and as hearty as any child of her age. I attribute her present good health entirely to your excellent whiskey."
